

You can help protect government's IT environment.

Learn about safe applications and software.

As long as the software is IT division-approved, installed and managed, it is safe to use.

Nothing unapproved should exist on your work desktop or laptop.

When we open our systems up to unapproved applications, we also potentially open our systems to many hidden sets of eyes.

Some applications live in the cloud, and don't need to be downloaded to use them. If these applications are used on work machines, you should keep sensitive government information off of them.

Any updates to your desktop or laptop applications should be done by submitting an IT Service Request.
